Wartime Fourth Of July

Most War Plants Will Hum On; Coast Cities To Celebrate Quietly

A nation fighting to protect the freedom it won in other wars celebrates tomorrow its first wartime Fourth of July in a quarter-century under conditions that may make it really "safe and sane."

Most war factories will hum on, many fireworks have been abandoned and, on the populous eastern seaboard, gasoline rationing will keep the greater part of the area's 10,000,000 motorists off the highways.

True, many of the 54,000,000 residents of the 17 gas-starved Atlantic coast states plan to make their usual holiday trips by train or bus, and some municipalities—mostly in the midwest—are to stage huge fireworks displays, but travel generally will be in the form of parades and fireworks in the form of speeches.

Army warnings that fireworks displays and large gatherings might present opportunities for token air raids and for saboteurs and actual bans on such celebrations on the east and west coasts as well as the gulf states indicated that those areas would observe the holiday quietly.

CANCEL FIREWORKS DISPLAY

In the nation's capital, Washington's annual municipal fireworks display was cancelled and it was announced that work would go on in all government offices connected with the war effort.

Inland, however, in some central and southwestern states, where the danger of possible air raids is less than that on the coasts, many big events were planned to attract great throngs of celebrants' unhampered by gas rationing.

Typical of these will be Minneapolis' annual American Legion show at Powderhorn Park. Where 200,000—largest crowd in the event's 13-year history—are expected to attend an all-day program featuring the mass induction of 1,500 navy recruits.

Operate As Usual

All war plants in the bumble Detroit area will operate as usual, as will the North American bomber plant at Kansas City, where Nat Milgram, president of the American War Dads, has issued an appeal to celebrants to buy war stamps and bonds instead of firecrackers.

In Indianapolis, the Shriners abandoned their annual fireworks show in favor of a similar one to be staged by the army relief fund, while in Omaha the American Legion planned a fireworks exhibit at Creighton university stadium, including on the program a mass swearing in of navy recruits.

Old Fashioned Celebration

Parts of the southwest also will go all-out for a regular old-fashioned Fourth complete with roman candles and fireworks of all description. Phoenix, Ariz., is to present a re-enactment of the "bombing Tokyo" to the tune of presence of Technical Sergeant presence of Technical Sergeant Eldred V. Scott, hometown soldier who participated in the actual raid on the Japanese city.

M. P. Booster Party At Park Tonight

Rev. Walter P. Arnold, chaplain of Pettis County Post No. 16 of the American Legion and pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church will be the principal speaker at tonight's Missouri Pacific Booster Club party, which will be held at Liberty Park at 8:30 o'clock.

Included on the program of entertainment will be the Missouri Pacific Buzz Sawyers, Lillian Hurley's dancing students, and a male quartette composed of A. B. Case, Bob Wild, Carl Yessen and Ralph Guenther. Specialty numbers will be presented by Buddy and Betty Dillon and by Junior Martin.

Will Be Ready Soon To Guide Draft Boards

Compile List Of Essential Occupations

Men To Be Ready Soon To Guide Draft Boards

WASHINGTON, July 3—(P)—War manpower sources said today that roster of essential civilian activities and "critical war occupations" would be published about July 15 to establish a definite guide for military deferment.

The United States employment service is preparing the lists in collaboration with the War Production Board, the war, navy and agriculture departments, and with other government agencies, as a part of the general program to keep men with critical skills at their work benches.

By direction of manpower chairman Paul V. McNutt, copies of the lists will be sent to all local draft boards, and "to the extent required for the maintenance of essential activities, individuals who are engaged in essential occupations in essential activities" will be deferred from military service.

No Group Deferments

This does not mean, however, that every man of draft age working in one of the occupations listed will be automatically deferred, since the selective service act definitely prohibits "group" deferments.

Each man in such essential classifications, or his employer, must be asked to the local board that his skill or service is necessary to the war effort according to the definitions of the manpower commission.

McNutt gave these definitions:

"Essential war activities include the production, repair, transportation or maintenance of equipment supplies, facilities or materials required in the prosecution of the war by the United States and by other United Nations.

Defines "Essential"

"An essential occupation means any occupation, craft, trade, skill or profession, required in an essential activity, in which an untrained individual is unable to attain reasonable proficiency within less than six months of training or experience."

A critical war occupation means an essential occupation, found by the United States employment service to be one with respect to which the number of individuals, available and qualified to perform services therein, is insufficient for existing or anticipated requirements for essential activities."

Set A Pattern

Draft boards now defer men engaged in critical work, but McNutt said "there are boards which defer too easily! there are boards which seem to regard it as a breach of patriotism to defer anybody for occupational reasons."

The list now being prepared are expected to set an emphatic pattern.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON AND
ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, July 3—As Marshal Rommel's army eats farther into Egypt, U. S. oil experts face the unpleasant possibility of blowing up wells producing millions of barrels of oil in Mosul, Iran and Iraq.

For the chief strategy of the allies has been to cut Hitler off from oil — oil in the Caucasus, oil in the Near and Middle East, meanwhile bombing his oil supplies in Rumania. So if Rommel's forces get near these oil fields, they must be wrecked at all cost.

And what frankly worries U. S. oil experts is that they may not be destroyed. It is generally known British oil wells in Rumania fell into Hitler's hands in complete working order. U. S. oilmen had been sent all the way from Texas for the express purpose of touching them off with nitroglycerine. But the British decided Rumania was neutral, so nothing was done.

In Java, however, very careful preparations were made. This time there was no neutrality to worry anyone. Japan had attacked, and there were about two months in which to prepare the dynamiting of the Dutch East Indies oil wells.

But this time, though it never leaked out, something happened. The Standard-Vacuum wells were completely destroyed — in the face of enemy machine gun fire. American oil equipment and property valued at $150,000,000 went up in smoke. But the Shell company wells were not wrecked. Later the British reported that this was "due to a slight error in judgment."

Naturally, therefore, the fate of the Near Eastern wells causes concern. Most of them are British, and this time no one wants another error in judgment, no matter how slight. For such an error would put millions of barrels of oil immediately into the hands of Hitler.

Supreme U. S. Commander

British failures and errors in judgment have brought increasing pressure here for an American supreme command over the United Nations.

One error earlier in the war which has served to bring this point home was the case of the barges loaded with dynamite with which the British planned to block the Danube at the Iron Gate, thus preventing Hitler from sending submarines and other water-borne military supplies into the Balkans.

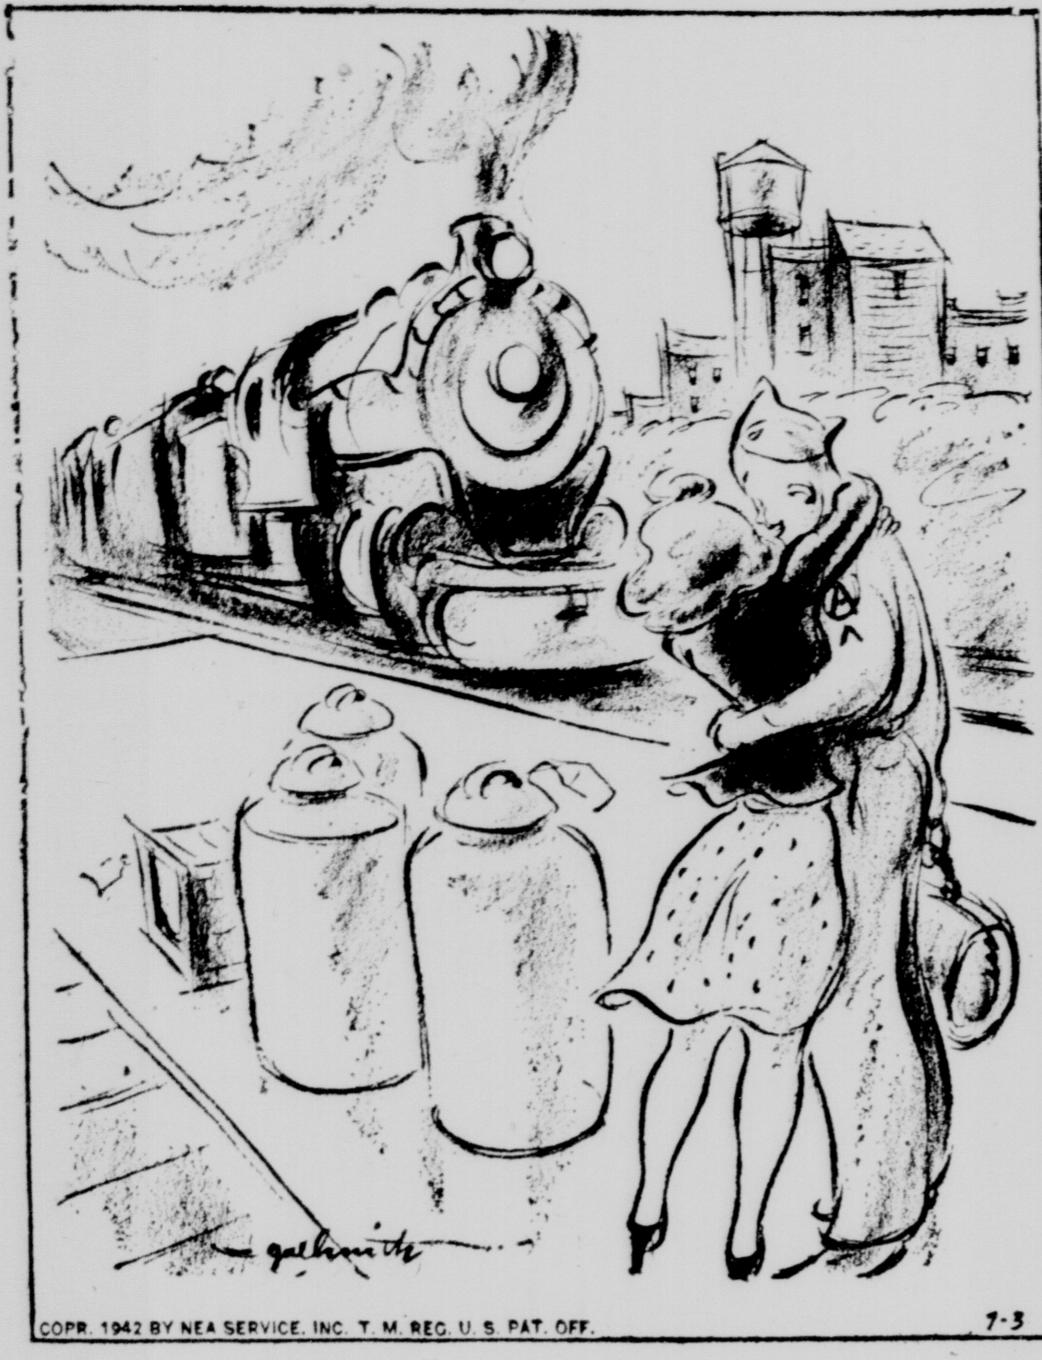

The two barges were loaded with dynamite, and everything was perfectly planned, except for one thing. The British insisted on pacing up and down on the decks of the barges in the daylight to get their usual daily exercise, instead of staying below all day and coming up at night. So the Germans saw them, reported suspicious-looking sailors to the Rumanians, and the barges were seized. So now the Danube, unblocked, is an important means by which war supplies are transported to the Black Sea against Russia, and perhaps will be used later against Turkey and the Near East.

Note: When the Nazis concealed their troops aboard merchant ships to make their surprise conquest of Norway, no suspicious characters took constitutional in the daylight.

King Peter
After his speech in the house chamber, 18-year-old King Peter of Yugoslavia stood in line for almost an hour shaking hands with members of congress, and demonstrated that he was both a smooth politician and a lover of American jazz.

young monarch asked, "Where did you say you were from?"

"Texas," repeated Thomason. Peter's eyes lighted up.

"Oh!" he grinned, "Deep in the Heart of Texas!"

"You proved yourself quite an authority on world affairs by that fine speech you made here today," beamed Thomason, "but I didn't know you also kept up on our popular music!"

"Oh, I am a great admirer of your music," replied Peter, "but I would have known about your state even if that song hadn't been written. I used to hear a lot about Texas in my country. I would like very much to visit Texas."

Overwhelming Confidence Vote Tribute To Churchill

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
(Wide World Analyst)

Behind the 20-to-1 vote of confidence that confirmed Winston Churchill as Britain's war captain at so perilous an hour lie many unspoken considerations. High among them must be the traditional British administration of courage.

That vote was more a tribute by his fellows to the dauntless heart of the man himself than a ratification of his war management. Again as when France fell and England came to the blackest moment in her history, he symbolized British bulldog grit. And Britons had need of that never-say-die valor as they awaited tides from the Egyptian battle.

Confidence Vote No Surprise
The confidence vote was no surprise.

The confidence vote was no surprise. Whatever grief and dismay the British may have felt over the catastrophe to the Imperial army in Libya or new disasters that may be impending in Egypt, it obviously was no time to shift leadership.

That does not mean, however, that there will be no revision in war commands at home or in the field as a consequence of the Libyan disaster.

Churchill himself seemed at a loss to explain that defeat. He made no effort to attribute it to British military inferiority in any respect except in generalship.

On the contrary he asserted, backed by specific figures, that the British Eighth Army held superiority over its Axis foes in manpower, tanks, guns and in the air, yet still was crushed.

By Churchill's accounting, the battle of Libya, perhaps of Egypt, was lost on June 13 when a powerful British force of 300 tanks went into action, presumably aiming at destruction of Axis forces, and was itself trapped and all but destroyed. Only 70 heavy tanks emerged, he said, but what precise failure caused the disaster was not indicated.

Valor Not Questioned

It was certainly not lack of valor. That has never been questionable in British or Empire armies. It is not questionable now in the swirling battle in defense of Alexandria.

Churchill could tell the House that heavy British reinforcements had arrived or were moving up to warrant his assertion that the issue in Egypt still was to be decided. He could say, too, that Anglo-American air power still was greater than that of the foe in the crucial struggle.

And he could add one other assurance to brace British morale, whatever happens in Egypt or the Middle East. American built war keels are already taking the water this year at a rate four times greater than the British shipping output, he said. Next year American built tonnage will exceed British eight or ten times, he added.

On shipping turns the ability to bring to bear against the Axis mates on any front, east or west, the full American battle weight and the products of the American war arsenal. The British realize the vital importance of the American ship building effort to United Nation hopes of ultimate victory.

However, the shipping figures do little to ease immediate tension over the Egyptian crisis, the gravity of which Churchill made no effort to conceal. He could not have done so if he desired. Casual inspection of any map of the Eastern Mediterranean reveals the terrible danger in which not only the Suez Canal but the Bible Lands of Palestine, Syria and the oil riches of Persia stand as Rommel's war machines roll closer to Alexandria and Hitler looses the weight of his growing offensive against Russia.

That map was in Churchill's mind for more than the political pattern of his confidence vote victory as he turned to hover anew over reports from the Egyptian front. Hours might see the map redrawn, deferring allied victory hopes and prolonging the war indefinitely.

Both Sides Put Full Strength Into Battle, Climaxing Axis Drive tern for deferments.

In informed quarters said the new Italian Littorio mechanized division had gone into action in the desert for the first time, increasing Rommel's armored strength to four divisions — two German and two Italian.

British bombers and fighters were reported to be smashing at Axis land forces "in increasing numbers."

Blast Communication Lines

Enemy concentrations south of El Alamein were heavily attacked, headquarters reported, and the RAF planes ranged far across the desert to blast Axis communication lines and the important supply port of Tobruk.

"There was an increase of enemy air activity over the battle area during the afternoon and night of July 2 and 3," the communiqué also said.

Numerous dogfights developed over the lines, during which the British fighters were credited with shooting down eight Axis planes. The British acknowledged loss of seven planes in bombing and fighter operations.

While interest centers principally on the deferment ratings, the War Production Board by McNutt's direction is at work on an equally important job—the classifying of war plants according to urgency, and the employment service will "make preferential referrals of workers to employers engaged in war production in the order of their priority before making referrals to other employers." This list of priority ratings will be announced soon.

Scrap Campaign Be On This Month

campaign to collect vital scrap materials all over the nation — rubber, steel, tin, lead, zinc, copper and the like—will be launched July 13 through newspaper advertisements, radio programs and other media.

The industry-sponsored drive, approved by the War Production Board and other government agencies, was underwritten by the iron and steel industry with a contribution of $1,500,000. Hope was expressed that other types of business would add at least $500,000 to the fund.

Over Half Of House Obtain 'X' Cards

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(AP)—

More than half the membership of the House, 219 representatives, obtained "X" ration cards in Washington for unlimited purchases of gasoline, files of the district rationing administration shown Thursday.

A total of 115 Democrats, 103 Republicans and one Progressive are "X" card holders, the check-up disclosed.

The Representatives who obtained the cards in the District of Columbia, by states included:

Missouri—Duncan, Bell, Clarence Cannon, Sullivan, Cochran, Democrats; Ploeser, Republican.

Fined For Driving Overloaded Truck

Arrested for driving a truck loaded beyond the capacity of his permit, Charles Smithers was fined $30 and costs of $8.70 in the justice court of A. M. Harlan this morning.

Smithers pleaded guilty.

Obviously this is only a phase of the conflict, and the battle may have been resumed in full force again even as this is being written. One thing is made clear in dispatches from the front—it is a fight to a finish between Rommel the Nazi and Auchinleck the Scotsman. There will be no half-way business. Either the Allies or Axis will take a murderous beating.

We aren't told, of course, the strength of the reinforcements which Auchinleck has received in men and equipment, but apparently it has been very considerable. The Allies still claim superiority in the air despite German reinforcements, and the American and British air forces working in conjunction are reported to have been giving Rommel's supply bases and attenuated communications a blasting. As previously pointed out, these lengthy supply lines are one of the German commander's greatest weaknesses and Auchinleck is fortunate to have such an air fleet in support.

How It Was Named

The tiger orchid is so named because a member of the Fostermann collecting party was attacked and killed by a tiger in the Siamese jungle while attempting to collect this flower.

Altitude Makes Difference

An automobile driver at sea level gets about three miles a gallon more out his gasoline than the man who lives at a 10,000-foot elevation.

Religion Wants a New World Order

America has a rendezvous beyond the battle fronts. Today its leaders give thought not only to how victory will be won but also to how it may best be preserved.

Increasing emphasis is being placed on the part that religion must play in the shaping of a new world order. Out of its own experience, America, a nation built by men of all creeds and races, has drawn a blueprint that the peacemakers may profitably consult.

America's design for world peace provides for government based upon reverence for God and respect for the individual; freedom of human enterprise and opportunity for all to share justly in the world's goods; the practice of justice and charity between all men without regard to race, creed or color; and recognition of the home as the keynote of all civilized society.

Religious leaders of the protestant, Jewish and Catholic faiths are united in urging that only upon such a foundation will cooperation and understanding among nations be established.

Richard Wertz Now
A Flying Student

Richard Wertz, 25 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Wertz, 403 East Broadway, Sedalia, has enlisted as a flying student in the United States Naval Reserve and was sworn in at the Kansas City Naval Aviation Cadet Selection board. He was graduated from the Falls City (Neb.) high school in 1936, where he was a member of the football team, and is now employed by the Missouri Pacific railroad in Sedalia.

Wertz soon will be ordered to a pre-flight training induction center for three months of physical conditioning under several of the nation's leading athletic coaches, and then will begin preliminary flight training at one of the naval reserve aviation bases.

How It Was Named

The tiger orchid is so named because a member of the Fostermann collecting party was attacked and killed by a tiger in the Siamese jungle while attempting to collect this flower.

Altitude Makes Difference

An automobile driver at sea level gets about three miles a gallon more out his gasoline than the man who lives at a 10,000-foot elevation.

Topeka Scots Play Merchants At Park Saturday--Sunday

Visitors Among The Semi-Pro Leaders In Kansas; Placed Seventh In Tourney

The Topeka Scots baseball team of Topeka, Kansas, will be the opposing team for the Sedalia Merchants this Fourth of July and again on Sunday afternoon at Liberty Park. The games for both days will begin promptly at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

In Kansas, the Topeka Scots are considered one of the outstanding semi-pro baseball teams. They have an outstanding record for 1941 and are making a return record for 1942. It was in 1940 the team came to Sedalia and played the Merchants under the lights of Liberty Park winning an extra inning contest by a 5 to 4 score.

Have Good Record

Last season they won twenty-seven games and lost nine and placed in a tie for seventh place in the Kansas State Semi-Pro baseball tournament. So far this season they've won six and dropped two, and are leaving the Topeka State League.

Already this year they have defeated the Eldorado Oilers, 6-0, the team which tied them in the tournament. The two defeats went to the C. R. T. C. team of Fort Riley, and the Cessna Bob Cats of Wichita.

The team is managed by A. L. Coffman who has three sons in the lineup, and there are two other brother combinations on the team, the Harrs and the Hickeys.

Three Games Between Yanks And Red Sox

By JUDSON BAILEY Associated Press Sports Writer

The Fourth of July fireworks in the major leagues are slated to be set off at twilight tonight in Fenway park at Boston where the Red Sox and the sputtering New York Yankees will collide in the most important series of the midsummer.

A mere three games separate the clubs in the standings and the game at 5 p.m. (CWT) tonight and tomorrow's holiday doubleheader will give the Red Sox a chance to move into a tie for the American league lead. Weather kept both teams idle yesterday.

The Sox have won 20 out of their 24 games and with Ted Williams presumably chastened and ready to make his bat do his talking, they may add additional bruises to the already battered world champions, who have lost 11 of 17 games since leaving New York nearly three weeks ago. Boston already has won five out of eight games from the Yanks this season.

The Same As A Year Ago

If New York is able to win the series, though, the champs may be hard to beat. On this date a year ago they had precisely the same lead they now hold — three games — and won in a romp.

The Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers both took advantage of the idleness of New York and Boston yesterday to tighten the boundaries of the first division.

The Indians completed a sweep of their four-game series with the Chicago White Sox last night with a 7-5 trimming before 29,000 fans who turned out at Comiskey park for a army-relief affair that netted $33,352.

Lefty Lovill (Chubby) Dean the Sox subdued on three hits for eight innings while the Tribe gave him a 7-1 lead on 13 hits, two by Dean himself, but Chicago rallied for four runs in the ninth and it took two relief hurdlers, Joe Heving and Harry Eisenstat, to smother the fire.

John Beazley, Cardinals—beat Pirates with five-hit hurling.

Ray Mack, Indians—hit triple and single and scored two runs to lead attack on White Sox.

How Rommel Does It

One pattern of desert warfare plotted so successfully by the crafty Rommel is diagrammed above. Towns like Tobruk or Matruh are attacked from the west (1) in late afternoon when the setting sun's rays will half-blind the defenders, or during a sandstorm which will hide attackers. Dive bombers (2) swoop on objective in one continuous blasting. A mored forces surround the town (3), attempt to block line of retreat eastward. Then attackers converge on town (4) and tighten great ring of steel.

Senate Passes A Taxation Measure

WASHINGTON, July 3.—(P)—Senate passed and sent to the House a measure permitting states to levy regular taxes against property acquired by the government since January, 1942, or obtained in the future for general military purposes.

Senator McNary of Oregon, the minority leader, said similar measures were in effect during the last war.

The bill would authorize state taxation of real property taken over for camps, bomb testing areas and other installations at the rate previously charged against it.

Believe All Safe After Torpedoing

A GULF COAST PORT, July 3.—(P)—Taking to sea in four lifeboats, all 94 passengers and crew members of a medium-sized Dutch vessel were believed safe, after the sinking of their ship in the Gulf of Mexico June 10, the Eighth Naval District announced Thursday.

One torpedo struck on the starboard side, the ship took a decided list and was ordered abandoned. The wake had been seen by lookouts, but the ship was unable to dodge it.

The 27 passengers and 67 crew members took to four lifeboats which became separated during the night. One sailed to a Mexican port, and its occupants brought by plane to a Gulf coast city. Two lifeboats were picked up at sea and the other put in to another Mexican port.

Convict Cafe Man At Detroit Of Treason

Said To Be First Conviction For Such In U. S.

By PAUL M. CHANDLER (DETROIT, July 3.—(P)—Stolid and as devoid of expression as he had remained through three days of trial, Max Stephan, German-born Detroit restaurant owner, Thursday night heard a jury convict him of the highest crime in the land—treason.

Reporting to a hushed and jammed courtroom at 5:35 p. m., the six men and six women jurors brought in their verdict just 83 minutes after receiving the case from Federal Judge Arthur J. Tuttle.

Government Attorney John W. Babcock said it was the first conviction for treason in the history of the United States.

Stephan was accused of 12 oaths of assistance to a fleeing Nazi prisoner of war, Oberleutnant Hans Peter Krug.

These acts—the offering by Stephan, a naturalized citizen, to Krug of food, shelter, money and entertainment on April 18 and 19—consisted "aid and comfort" in the time of war to an enemy of the United States, government counsel contended.

Stephan's wife, seated at his elbow, had sobbed into a handkerchief during almost two hours of closing arguments, but when jury foreman Jerry H. Armstrong pronounced the verdict she was as unmotional as her convicted husband.

Judge Tuttle said he would pronounce sentence "very shortly" when he had completed his normal procedure of gathering character reports on Stephan from probation officers.

Maximum Penalty Death

The maximum penalty for treason is death; the minimum is five years imprisonment or $10,000 fine, or both.

Stephan told his attorney that he would not appeal the judgment unless he was sentenced to death.

In his closing argument, Vern C. Amberson, defense attorney, admitted that the defendant had committed the 12 acts named in his indictment, but insisted that such acts "were granted to Peter Krug as an individual and not to an enemy government."

Judge Tuttle thereby instructed the jury that it was their task to determine whether it had been Stephan's intent to render aid to "Germany—an enemy of ours" or to "Krug—an individual."

The defense, which did not call a single witness, relied entirely on the argument that Stephan had been intent only on "showing Peter Krug a good time."

Krug himself was the government's most important witness. Proudly and in the blue uniform of a Luftwaffe officer, he took the stand for five hours and told of trips to the defendant's restaurant, to bars, a hotel, and of receiving gifts of money from him.

Krug testified that he had come to Detroit after escaping from a Bowmarville, Ont., prison camp.

From here he went to Chicago, New York, and was captured by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents May 1 in a San Antonio, Tex., hotel.

Victor Mature To Coast Guards

LOS ANGELES, July 3.—(P)—Handsome and muscular Victor Mature, who wowed the ladies in New York a year or so ago as a stage actor and thereby soared to movie fame, quit the films cold Thursday to join the coast guard.

He was sworn in with 18 other recruits, and Lieut. John D. Roche, Eleventh Naval District Procurement Officer, said he would begin service immediately, probably in Southern California waters.

Associates at RKO studios, where he lacked 10 days of finishing "Sweet and Hot," expressed amazement. All disclaimed prior knowledge of his plan and no one was willing to suggest what may happen to the film.

Similar surprise was registered at 20th Century-Fox, his home studio, which paid a reputed $100,000 or so for his contract less than a year ago.

Mature, 26-year-old native of Louisville, Ky., and his wife, the former Martha Stephenson, widow of orchestra leader Hal Kemp, separated last February.

The 27 passengers and 67 crew members took to four lifeboats which became separated during the night. One sailed to a Mexican port, and its occupants brought by plane to a Gulf coast city. Two lifeboats were picked up at sea and the other put in to another Mexican port.

British Strike In Full Fury At The Rear of Axis Army

Either Victory Or Destruction For One Of Armies In Egypt Combat

By EDWARD KENNEDY

CAIRO, Egypt. July 2.—(P)—Reinforced British tanks and artillery struck with full fury late today at the rear of the Axis army in a carefully planned maneuver to counter the armored assault of Field Marshall Erwin Rommel upon the main British positions defending Egypt and the Middle East.

The inconclusive battle raged into the night. The decision, upon which apparently rests the fate of British and allied power in the Eastern Mediterranean, might not come for a day or two.

Picking his favorite time for a fight, Rommel hurled his armored legions upon the British at El Alamein, 60 miles west of Alexandria, when the sun would be full in the allied eyes.

At that time, the British sent tanks and artillery pounding against his rear by way of his right flank.

With this surprise move the enemy was forced to fight with the glare of the sun in his eyes.

Both sides have thrown everything available in the region into the struggle, which is the climax of the Axis offensive of the past weeks.

The importance of the battle was recognized here. The enemy will take Egypt or be destroyed. The allied troops will save Egypt or be destroyed.

Scant Chance To Turn Back

There is scant chance of either side turning back now.

The reinforcements of both men and material that are reaching the allied lines are beginning to show a marked effect, it was said here.

The British are rushing up 25-pound cannon and a new anti-tank six-pounder which are hammering away with a great gusto and determination and have proved an excellent deterrent to the German tanks.

The defenders of Egypt repulsed a heavy attack on enemy tanks and truck-borne infantry upon El Alamein last night.

Axle tanks broke through at one point but were engaged and halted back.

Farther south, along the rim of the Qattara Salt Marshes, allied units took the offensive against the enemy column.

The struggle, which had subsided somewhat in the night, began again this morning, with the main blow of the Axis coming this afternoon.

Enemy fighter activity increased somewhat but the allied air force retained mastery of the skies and struck heavily at the invaders.

(In the second day of the titanic struggle surging only 60 miles west of the Nile Delta, German and Italian communiques claimed the Axis forces had punctured a weak spot and were in pursuit of British columns east of the defense anchor.)

Concede Break Through

The British conceded the break-through at an unspecified point but said the allies swiftly drove the penetrating tanks back again.

Faith In Prime Minister

Confidence Vote To Churchill; Reinforcements Near Battlefield

LONDON, July 2.—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill won an overwhelming vote of confidence from the House of Commons today after he had gravely assessed the allied position in the Mediterranean and Middle East war zones as a near-disaster with a hope of victory pinned on "very considerable" reinforcements now in progress.

The vote was 475 to 25.

BY DREW MIDDLETON LONDON, July 2.—(P)—The battle of Egypt has brought the allies face to face with a disaster equalled only by the fall of France but the issue is not yet decided and "very considerable" reinforcements have reached or "are approaching" the battlefield, Prime Minister Churchill declared today.

This major strengthening of the battered British Eighth Army, athwart the axis path to the Nile delta, Alexandria and Suez, was the basis of Churchill's statement that "I do not consider the struggle in any way as decided."

This appraisal of the allied position in Africa and the middle east, evoked by two days of debate in the House of Commons on Churchill's conduct of the war, was given in a speech which also touched upon the prime minister's recent consultations with President Roosevelt.

Conversation On War Only

He said the conversations were concerned "only with movement of troops, ships and aircraft and measures to be taken to combat losses at sea and more than replace sunken tonnage."

The United States Army air force has been in action for some days in the north African struggle while United States service and supply units have been engaged on behalf of the allies behind the battle lines.

"Almost everything arranged was secret," Churchill added of his talks with the president, and "there was never a more earnest desire between allies to engage the enemy."

In the closing passage of his historic reply, just before Commons began voting on a motion to censure his government for its direction of the war, Churchill said:

Two New Members For Company F

Company F, Fourth Missouri Infantry, held its regular drill period Thursday night and Captain Ellsworth Green, Jr., conducted inspection of the company after which an extended order drill under supervision of Lieut. William Hurlbut, Jr., was held.

Private Wesley Brown gave a lecture on "Military Courtesy" followed by a review by Captain Green.

Two new members were added to the roster, Willian Stanley Grother and Terrill Featherstone Casebolt.

Involved in the latter items were funds for the farm security administration. This agency was authorized to operate during July and August on the same basis as it operated during the past fiscal year.

The big issue causing the deadlock was the government's policy of selling wheat at below parity prices.

The House had insisted that no sales be permitted at prices below parity, but the Senate had voted to allow sales of 125,000,000 bushels of wheat at prices equivalent to 85 per cent of parity prices for corn.

Overwhelming Confidence Vote Tribute To Churchill

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON (Wide World Analyst)

Behind the 20-to-1 vote of confidence that confirmed Winston Churchill as Britain's war captain at so perilous an hour lie many unspoken considerations. High among them must be the traditional British administration of courage.

That vote was more a tribute by his fellows to the dauntless heart of the man himself than a ratification of his war management. Again as when France fell into the arms of the Liberator, Churchill himself seemed at a loss to explain that defeat. He made no effort to attribute it to British military inferiority in generalship.

Good Response To Appeal From County Agent To Aid The Farmers

The serious need, by the farmers of this county, of help to harvest their crops, caused J. U. Morris, county extension agent to call on G. T. Callender, superintendent of the Missouri Pacific shops, to discuss with him the possibility of recruiting some of the Sedalia shopmen, to help the farmers with their work, during their off duty hours.

Mr. Morris went to Mr. Callender's office Friday afternoon. Mr. Callender, also realizing the seriousness of the situation, and the need to save the crops of the community, assured Mr. Morris that the men of the shops were loyal, fine men, who were always willing to help their neighbor when they could. He felt they would respond to the request, as they have always responded to any appeal. He said he would put the matter up to them and the decision would rest with them. He was to report to Mr. Morris later.

Responded Unanimously

Mr. Callender's confidence in his men was not misplaced. The situation was explained, the men understood that this country is at war, that a large portion of the manpower is either in the army, or on defense work in other cities, and before the men left work each one had signified his readiness to serve, and gave his name, occupation, address and phone number where they could be reached when needed. This list, compiled by Mr. Callender's office force, will be published in the Democrat and Capital, the first of the list appearing today. Farmers may then contact the shopmen.

In talking to a Democrat-Capital reporter Saturday morning Mr. Callender reiterated his statement that the employees of the Sedalia shops are the finest body of men he has ever worked with, and that he has never yet asked them to support a community movement—but they have done so unanimously. He stated that in this case it was not necessary to ask them, he merely explained the seriousness of the situation, and was immediately deluged with offers to help.

No Wages Discussed

The subject of wages was not taken into consideration, and it is understood the farmers will pay the men the amount to probably be discussed at a meeting of the Pettis County Agriculture-Labor committee, which will be held Monday night.
